You're about to see the waiting room of a science laboratory.

See if you can spot the items in the room that are a bit "out of place."

We were so excited to see the emergency party caller! There are so many attractive features of the emergency caller. Let's start with the calming blue color, the flashing blue lights, the cleansing shower head, portal for friend arrival, and the party planning feature. Humans really know how to get a party started!!

I have stumbled upon this device used by the humans. It is unclear what they use it for at this time. Upon entering a tiny room, I speculate that they sit on this device. When no longer sat, the water in the bowl disappears and replenishes. Perhaps they are using this device to wash something? When they finish, some of them scrub their hands together under water and then shake them under a loud anti vacuum. Not all of them do this, reasoning is unclear.
